General

2. Distance in most rural areas in Ethiopia is still measured in hours. Villagers have a shrewder idea of time than direction.
3. In April, 1954, there were more than 100 murderers waiting to be publicly hanged. The crime rate is said to drop perceptibly after public hangings. However, "better class" criminals are not hanged in public in order to save their relatives undue distress.
4. Old US newspapers sell for 35¢ per kilogram in the Arab junk shops at bazaars, and are prized as wallpaper. In one house [REDACTED] 70 miles from Addis, all the walls were covered with copies of the Newark, N.J. Evening News, issues of August 4, 1952.
